

Wipro's Supply Chain Command Center

Manage the changing supply chain dynamics during a crisis like COVID-19

The COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted supply chains through the cycle of plan, source-to-make and deliver; at multiple geographies, modes of transport, planning and supply cycles.

During such a crisis, organizations need the ability to closely and continuously monitor their processes and be able to take corrective actions to keep pace, adapt and align to the continuously changing dynamics.

Wipro's Supply Chain Command Center enables visibility across key business processes in the supply chain

Key Takeaways

Wipro's Supply Chain Command Center provides visibility across unfulfilled orders, delayed shipments, stock-outs, inventory, re-prioritizing orders, rerouting shipments, etc.

Helps organizations dynamically re-align and respond to supply chain disruptions and changes in a fast changing environment

Key benefits

Organizations will have the ability to monitor key processes continuously, adapt and respond to disruptions through:

Visibility on key process performance

Visibility on supply chain disruptions

Visibility on process breakdowns

Signals and alerts on transactions and processes that are disrupted and need attention

Advance warning for critical processes and transactions

Ability to make interventions and bring processes/transactions back on track

Insights for improvement

Automatic execution of standard tasks from Command Center without going back to ERP

Wipro's Supply Chain Command Center helps make interventions and take corrective actions in supply chain processes

Features

The Command Center provides visibility across key business processes in supply chain, identifies areas that need corrective actions through signals and alerts and provides the capability to make interventions and take corrective actions in processes

Wipro helps set up rules, alerts and signals to draw attention to actions required to be taken in processes needing interventions across the supply chain
